

TOP STORIES

Foodies queue up to break bread in restaurant kitchens PAGE 2

Asset lenders see a boost because of credit squeeze PAGE 3

Rover memoir may not hit publishing jackpot NEW YORK, NEW YORK, P. 8

Congestion pricing finds itself in political gridlock BROOKLYN PAGE 13

Holdout landowner and Columbia resume talks on property swap THE BRIDGE PAGE 24

REPORT
CORPORATE PHILANTHROPY
 • Education, health care programs are on the rise PAGE 17

• Crash in Kennedy airport is a warning sign for airports PAGE 21

AT DEADLINE

DRUGS, TOXICITY
TOXICITY
 • Drug safety concerns lead to new rules PAGE 10

RENTAL
 • Rental market shows signs of recovery PAGE 14

TECH
 • Tech industry faces challenges from government PAGE 11

3 bidders take lead at rail yards

Developers with tenants have edge; MTA may seek to force partnerships

BY TERRY A. RYAN

Three bidders are vying to take over the Long Island City rail yards, but the city's three largest developers are the most likely to win the high-profile competition to bring the 10-acre site back to life.

Three long-standing and successful developers are vying to take over the Long Island City rail yards, but the city's three largest developers are the most likely to win the high-profile competition to bring the 10-acre site back to life.

Soaring
 Hospitals make appetite for barista concern over sales

HOSPITALITY & TOURISM

Ovation Travel Group Inc.: Gail Garfat, 60, was promoted to vice president and general manager from Midwest regional manager.

ELECTRONIC EDITION